TRAINING & PERFORMANCE IMPROVEMENT

Over half of BCG's training experience involves the design and provision of technical training, the vast majority of which involved proprietary software applications. In most instances, the large enterprise software solutions had been repeatedly and specifically modified to the extent traditional "boxed" training was insufficient. Additionally, we have provided training on the most prevalent standardized software applications. At BCG we believe that to be effective, all technical training must involve hands on components, and accordingly we have incorporated practice exercises into each of our technical trainings.
